Introduction

- Balancing the Benefits with the Risk
- Our two mottos for the day:
 - Hope for the best, but plan for the worst
 - It's easier and cheaper to keep you out of trouble than to get you out of trouble

Basic Risks

- Web 1.0 and before
 - Phone calls
 - Faxes
 - E-mail
 - Expectations of privacy
- Web 2.0 and beyond
 - Social networking
 - Expectations of privacy

Basic Considerations

- Who Determines What We Say?
- Who is Authorized to Say It?
- Diamonds and Social Media Postings are Forever

Consequences of On-duty and Off-duty Use of Social Media

- Disclosure of Sensitive Information/Data
- Discrimination
- Defamation/Libel
- Copyright Infringement
- Trademark Infringement
- Music Licensing
- Unfair Competition
- Sexual Harassment
- Time Wasting

Copyright Infringement

- Copyright Protection is Automatic
- Do You Own What You Think You Own?
- Access + Substantial Similarity = Infringement
- Though It May Seem “Fair,” Your Use May Not Qualify as “Fair Use”

Trademark Infringement

- Use of Another's Trademark Is OK if Referring to the Product or Service in Connection with Which the Mark is Used
- Infringement Results Where There Is a Likelihood of Confusion
 - Consider LinkedIn or Facebook Groups

Suggested Policies

- Address what is prohibited
- Monitoring and auditing
- Consent to disclosure of email and texts
- Company can release to 3rd parties
- Employee acknowledgement of receipt and understanding
- Waiver of privacy when using company property
